

Information Security Policy

Organization for the promotion of low emission vehicles (hereinafter called "LEVO") protects the information assets of LEVO from threats such as accidents, disasters, and crimes, and in order to respond to the trust of related parties and society, all of LEVO's executives and employees implement information security measures based on the following policy.

1. Responsibility of officers

LEVO organizationally and continuously strives to improve and enhance information security under the initiative of LEVO's officers.

2. Development of information security-related structure

LEVO develops the structure to maintain and improve information security and develops the rules on information security measures.

3. Staff efforts

LEVO's staffs acquire the knowledge and skills required for information security measures, and herewith ensure information security measures.

4. Compliance with legal and contractual requirements

LEVO complies with laws, regulations, norms, and contractual obligations related to information security, and meet the expectations of related parties and society.

5. Response to contraventions and accidents

In the case of legal contraventions, contract contraventions, or accidents related to information security, LEVO takes appropriate measures and strives to prevent recurrence.

Date of enactment: August 1, 2022

Organization for the promotion of low emission vehicles

Chief Director Hisayasu Horike